

Cash App is one of the best online platforms that allows you to send and receive money from friends and family in a very simple and convenient way. If you have ever sent money to a person accidentally via Cash App? Let me tell you How to get a refund from the Cash App.

Getting a refund is not easy on any platform. And remember one thing: a cash app is not responsible for any transaction and will let you handle the dispute directly with the person. Let's look at how to deal with this type of situation.

Cancellation of a Payment

The transactions done from cash app to cash app is instant and it's impossible to cancel. square cash payment failed, On the other hand, If the recipient hasn't accepted the payment and you are getting a cancel option then you can easily cancel it.

Refund from Recipient

If you know the person whom you have sent money accidentally. You can personally ask him/her to do the following steps and get your refund instantly.

Open the Cash App on your Android or IOS device

Tap the Activity tab (clock icon) on your Cash App home screen

Select the payment that needs to be refunded.

Tap . . . (three dots) on the right-side top corner.

Select Refund

Press OK

If a successful message appears on the screen, the amount will be sent back to your Cash App balance instantly. You can also send the money back to your credit card, if you have done the transaction from your credit card.

What if The Recipient Doesn't Agree To Refund?

There may be a chance that the wrong person is full of ethics, and he/she is unwilling to give you the refund. Cash App cannot help you in that situation.

I must advise to use the Cash App with the people you know very well. The main reason behind that, they don't provide buyer protection policy to protect the consumers from this type of merchants.

In this type of situation, the only way to get your money refund is if the merchant is cooperative and willing to provide you a refund.

Processing Time for Refund

As I have discussed above, If the merchant agrees to refund the money then the refund from Cash App to Cash App will be instant. If you want to get the Cash App refund amount to your credit card it will take 2-7 business days for the process.

It's very complicated to get the refund if you accidentally send money to a person who is unwilling to refund the payment. There is no other way once the merchant accepts your payment.

You must be very careful before doing any transaction using Cash App. Make sure to double check and confirm all the detailed before clicking the send button. This is the best way to overcome this Cash App refund problem.

At last thank you for reading my post completely and I hope it will definitely help you to get your answer. If you have any query you can also comment down below.